Mrs. Mulcahy Identifies Her Attacker At Hearing Here

Harry Lee Stewart, about 28, a Corinth, Miss. Negro has been positively identified by Mrs. Mary Mulcahy as the man who attacked her in her home on August 10. In a hearing before City Police Judge P. A. Laine on Tuesday Stewart was held to the Grand Jury under bond fixed at $2500.00. Stewart plead not guilty.

Stewart, formally charged with assault and battery, was returned to the Fulton County jail at Hickman where he is serving a 30-day term on a charge of trespassing.

Stewart was arrested on the trespassing charge three days after Mrs. Mulcahy was bound, gagged and beaten by a Negro man in her home. Her husband and children were away on a fishing trip. Her attacker said he was looking for money but he failed to find any while he ransacked the house.

Mrs. Mulcahy was hospitalized briefly. She is a department superintendent in the Sunday School of First Baptist Church here.

Police Chief Richard Myatt said Stewart has a previous police record.

Negroes Enroll At Clinton In Quiet Admission

About 27 Negro high school students enrolled in Hickman County High School for the first time Tuesday, the first integration in the county.

Principal James Phillips said the Negro students were admitted without incident.

"Everything has gone very nicely," he said. "I don't know what the rest of the day will bring, but so far, there hasn't been any trouble."

There is no high school for Negroes in Hickman County. Until now Negro students of the county have been transported to Riverview High School in Hickman, Fulton County.

Last year, said Phillips, some 40 to 70 Negro students were taken to Riverview from Hickman County.

"We've got about half of them this year," he said.

Former Pastor, Sam Ed Bradley Dies In Arkansas

The Rev. Sam Ed Bradley, former general superintendent of the Kentucky Baptist Board of Child Care, died early Tuesday at Little Rock, Ark.

Mr. Bradley, a native of Van Buren, Ark., had retired from children's work several months ago because of ill health, and moved to Benton, Ark., near Little Rock. He was 55.

He was a former well beloved and popular pastor of the First Baptist Church in Fulton from 1945 to late 1947.

He had been superintendent of Spring Meadows, a Kentucky Baptist children's home near Middletown, from 1947 to 1960. In that year he was elevated to general superintendent of the board, a post in which he supervised Spring Meadows and the board's two other children's homes, Pine Crest at Morehead and Glen Dale at Glendale, Ky.

Mr. Bradley held a master's degree in theology from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here.

He was married to the former Fairlie Burton of Little Rock. Also surviving are a son, Glenn Ed Bradley, now with the armed forces in Germany, and a daughter, Mrs. William Cook of Louisville, and one grandchild.

The funeral will be at 10 a. m. today (Thursday) at the Ashby Funeral Home in Benton, Ark.

Combs Urges All To Register For November Voting

Gov. Bert Combs has reminded all Kentuckians to register to vote in the November 5 gubernatorial election before the September 7 deadline.

"Every eligible Kentuckian should consider it an obligation and a privilege to register and to vote," Combs said. "In this fall election, we are choosing the man who will guide our state for the next four years. He will affect the lives of every citizen of the Commonwealth and he should be the man that the majority believes will do the best job."

Combs pointed out that there are about 1,855,000 Kentuckians over the age of 18—legal voting age in the state.

"In 1959, however," Combs said, "the year of the last gubernatorial election, only 853,000 Kentuckians voted—less than half of the voting age population."

"If only half the people vote then a democracy is only half a democracy," Combs said. "The non-voters must accept what the voters have elected."

The Governor also pointed out that people who have moved since the last election should change their registration to their new address. Voters may register in the County Clerk's office.

A Banana Tree Grows In Fulton? Festival Planned To Focus National Attention Here

There's nary a banana tree within hundreds, maybe thousands of miles of the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tenn., but just the same it is often referred to as the Banana Capital of the Mid-South. To prove the point and to highlight the distinction, civic leaders of both cities are working feverishly to hold its first Banana Festival sometimes in late October or mid-November. It should focus the spotlight of national attention on this community.

Everything from a banana cocktail to a banana eating spree will be sponsored by a group being formed called the Twin Cities Banana Festival, Inc. Laying plans for a group, that will have

The idea of a Banana Week for the twin-cities was first promoted by the Civitans about a year ago, and it is hoped that with the organization of a corporation and necessary funds in hand, it will be possible to go ahead with plans for the celebration, and to establish it as an annual affair.

Promotion of bananas was chosen as the theme of the festival, due to the fact that a tremendous number of bananas are distributed from Fulton after their arrival from southern ports. Bananas imported from Central America are sent here by rail from New Orleans and iced here before being sent to points all over the United States, resulting in the twin cities being labeled "The Banana Capital of the South."

The celebration of Banana Week here is expected to be similar in scope to the Strawberry Festival in Humboldt, the Fish Fry in Paris, the Okra Festival in Bells, etc. Hope has been expressed that the observance may bring national publicity to Fulton-South Fulton.

legal status to acquire a large number of memberships with which to function, were several civic and business leaders who held the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office last Thursday night.

Nathan Wade, serving as temporary chairman of the gathering, briefed the group, (representatives of the various civic groups in the twin cities, as well as press and radio) on the origin of the Banana Festival idea. As he talked the enthusiasm mounted. By the end of the meeting enough money was pledged to form the corporation with the unanimous opinion that "$5000 to sponsor the event can be raised in no time at all."

The opinion proved more than accurate. A finance committee composed of Joe Treas, Mrs. Paul Westpheling and Kenneth Turner reported that when the corporation is formed, (perhaps at a meeting tonight at the Chamber of Commerce) the sale of charter memberships will be only a matter of picking up the pledges.

Serving with Mr. Wade as a temporary officer is Dewey Johnson, who is serving as temporary secretary. Both temporary officers will present more definite plans for the formation of the corporation at tonight's (Thursday) meeting.

Tentative plans for the promotion include a parade, beauty pageant, junior pageant, distribution of free bananas, manning of hospitality booths at entrances to the community, window displays, a banana pancake breakfast, a banana cocktail with prizes for the best banana recipe, a fireworks display, tours of the ice plant and of companies that manufacture banana ice cream, special recognition of visiting dignitaries, distribution of literature explaining why Fulton is the Banana Capital, and various other related projects which will add to the entertainment of the week and bring publicity to the twin-cities.

CHAMPION BUYER OF A CHAMPION STEER

RECORD BREAKER — Bill Bard's Hereford steer, Grand Champion of the Junior Livestock Show Wednesday at the Obion County Fair, set an all time Obion county record and a state-wide record as well, as the animal was sold Wednesday night to the Piggly-Wiggly Supermarket of South Fulton for $135 a pound. The prime animal weighed 994 pounds. The price paid far exceeds the record set last year when the E. W. James Supermarket of Union City paid $106. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bard of South Fulton. Young Bill, barely tall enough to be seen, is pictured above with Steve Lindsey, local Piggly-Wiggly manager.

Aztec Flying Birdmen To Show At State Fair

A spectacular ritual, old years before Columbus discovered the new land, will highlight the 1963 Kentucky State Fair, Sept. 6-14.

By special arrangement with impresario Pjavier DeLeon, of Mexico City, the Kentucky exposition is bringing from Mexico a troupe of authentic Aztec "Flying Birdmen," for two daily free performances throughout the Fair's nine-day run.

The centuries-old rite of the "Birdmen of Teotihuacan" will be presented every afternoon and evening in an open area near the front of the Coliseum.

ARMY PICKUP!

The truck from the Men's Social Service Center of the Salvation Army of Memphis will be in Fulton Monday, September 6, 1963. The Chamber of Commerce, phone 43, will take calls for pickup service.

Piggly Wiggly pays all-time High For Grand Champion Steer At Union City

In a show of civic pride for a South Fulton neighbor, the Piggly Wiggly Supermarket last week set an all-time Tennessee record of $135 per pound in bidding successfully for the Grand Champion of the Junior Livestock show at the Obion County fair in Union City.

The grand champion animal, weighing in at 994 pounds and judged prime, was awarded to Piggly Wiggly in a spirited bidding duel with three other competitors, all from Union City.

The Hereford steer was raised by little Bill Bard of South Fulton.

Steve Lindsey, local store manager, told The News this week that the animal is now being processed and will be offered to local buyers in about two weeks in a special sale of grand champion beef.

WELCOME HOME!

Mrs. Sam Winston and Mrs. W. L. Roper have returned home from Memphis Hospitals, both much improved.

Toward year's end, post offices are glutted with more than 1,750,000,000 New Year's cards and 13,000,000 parcels. All the New Year's mail MUST be delivered punctually on New Year's Day.

Fulton County Rehabilitates Six Under State Program

A record-breaking 1,881 mentally and physically-handicapped Kentuckians were rehabilitated during the past fiscal year by the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services of the Kentucky Department of Education.

Ben F. Coffman, director of the bureau, said this total was 105 more persons over the previous record of 1,776 established in 1961-62.

In Fulton County 6 persons were rehabilitated and 21 cases served by the Bureau of Rehabilitation.

Kentucky has advanced to 21st among the 50 states in the number of rehabilitated persons, 61 per 100,000 population, as compared to a ranking of 38th in 1958, Coffman added. Last year, the State was 24th.

A total of 6,445 persons have been rehabilitated in the last four years, 2,773 more than the 3,672 of the previous four years. The bureau does not consider a rehabilitant fully so until he is working on a job and self-supporting.

To transplant Kentuckians from the area of welfare and dependency to productive citizens, the bureau offers guidance, counseling, medical services, vocational diagnoses, artificial appliances, academic and vocational training, placement service and follow-up.

In a year-end report submitted to Wendell P. Dutler, superintendent of public instruction, Coffman reported that the rehabilitation bureau spent approximately $1,300,000 providing services to 4,585 persons in all counties in Kentucky. Persons were rehabilitated to employment in every county, he noted.

Coffman said college or vocational training was provided for 1,641 people.

Another first for the bureau was fully staffing the four mental hospitals with training rehabilitation personnel. The hospitals are Western State at Hopkinsville, Eastern State at Lexington, Central State at Anchorage, and Kentucky State at Danville.

What would we do if we had a bank that credited $86,400 to our account each morning; carried over no balance from day to day; allowed us to keep no cash in our account and every evening cancelled whatever amount we failed to use during the day?

What would we do? Well, most of us would draw out every cent!

We have such a bank, you know. We call it "Time." Every morning it credits us with 86,400 seconds, and every night it writes off whatever of this we have failed to invest to good purpose. It carries over no balances.

Each day it opens a new account with us. If we fail to use the day's deposits, the loss is ours. There is no going back. There is no drawing against the "tomorrow."

Civil Rights March On Washington Spotlights Progress Made; Show Of Understanding Needed

The National Broadcasting Company devoted three hours of its Labor Day programming to reporting the story of America's "Civil Rights Revolution." It was not a pretty story. Surely it did not have a happy ending. It is safe to say, that in terms of immediate results we will not see a happy ending in our lifetime; perhaps not in the lifetime of our children.

Last week's march on Washington can be called a triumph for the various civil rights groups that have sprung up around the country. But after everybody agrees on that, the question is: Why?

The battle cry of the march was "NOW!" Seas of placards demanded Negro equality - Now! Speakers demanded action - Now! Cried John Lewis, 25, leader of the militant young Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNICK): "We want our freedom - and we want it NOW!"

But NOW! remained a long way off. It would not come today, tomorrow, next month or next year. This was made starkly clear as the leaders of civil rights organizations paid morning calls on Capitol Hill's most powerful citizen.

Perhaps the key to the whole civil rights problem is the word "Now!"

True, it has been almost 100 years since President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation. Viewed in terms of nearly a century, perhaps the American Negro has a justifiable right in thinking that it is long enough to acquire certain rights given to them by the Constitution of the United States.

On the other hand it must be remembered that it was less than ten years ago that the Supreme Court rendered its historic ruling on civil rights, making it mandatory that equality be granted to all citizens, regardless of race, creed or color. Perhaps that span of time can be considered long enough by militant and impatient civil rights leaders; but how can they deny that it has been an infinitesimally short time to change the pattern and the conscience of a life time in many parts of these United States.

States.

Civil rights leaders themselves are having a hard time putting into words the real meaning of the march on Washington. In commenting on the march, and its effect on civil rights legislation Martin Luther King, Jr. said: "We have subpoenaed the conscience of the Nation."

Such drastic efforts hardly seemed necessary. The conscience of clear thinking Americans was subpoenaed a long time ago; for even King will be hard pressed to deny that much progress has been made in the field of civil rights in the past ten years.

Negro children are attending schools today as a result of quietly administered integration laws. Public accommodations are available to Negro citizens in many, many communities today without fanfare or rebellion. Except in some geographic areas, where more time is needed, public gatherings admit Negroes without even the slightest hesitancy. Much more progress will be made in the years to come.

In Kentucky, Governor Combs' executive order banning discrimination in many areas was looked upon in some quarters as a shattering blow to his Administration and to the gubernatorial campaign of Edward T. Breathitt, who is supported by the incumbent Democratic governor. Nothing could be further from the truth. Kentucky is among those States in the Nation where civil rights demonstrations are at a minimum, or non-existent.

The quiet acceptance of Governor Combs' executive order in Kentucky points inexorably to the fact that the "conscience" of this country is aware of the plight of the American Negro.

That conscience does not rest easy, nor is it spurred to action at the sight of violence and bloodshed or the threat of reprisal, intimidation or coercion.

Maybe the civil rights leaders operate on the premise that "it's later than you think." Perhaps so. But the goal gets no nearer by brow-beating.

It Ain't Easy To Lose 24,000,000 Bushels Of Wheat, But US Government Came Through

Twenty-four million bushels of grain would more than fill all the space in the hulls of liners Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, France and United States. It would seem to be impossible to lose 24 million bushels of grain, but the government did it. And now the Agriculture Department assures us that it doesn't matter, anyhow.

The grain was bartered to Austria for commodities to add to our military stockpiles, and all the items we were to get we already have in surplus. While the grain didn't arrive where it was supposed to go, apparently whoever was supposed to send us minerals in exchange for it lived up to their part of the bargain anyway. If they didn't get the grain, why are they paying us for it?

The Agriculture Department, which shipped the grain, hasn't answered that question. Its officials have appeared puzzled by the questions. They shipped wheat in enormous quantities to Austria for more than two years without apparently, even asking whether the Austrians ever got it.

To this day, they don't know who did get it. They assure us that none of went behind the Iron Curtain, but how do they know when they don't know where it did go?

They assure us that the United States will not lose anything, but we have merely exchanged one surplus commodity for others we already have too much of. And, it is wryly admitted in Washington, if the grain was consumed in any and where we ordinarily could sell wheat for dollars, our balance of payments has suffered to the tune of more than $30 million.

Furthermore, we have shipped over a billion and a half dollars worth of commodities under the same law over the years. If the same procedures were employed with results similar to the Austrian results, a billion dollars worth of them could have gone astray. We don't know what they did, but does the Government know that they didn't?

Congress should not let the matter drop now.

Turning Back The Clock--

FROM THE FILES--

September 3, 1943

Local stores, which have been closing at noon on Thursdays during June, July and August, have decided to continue this practice during the month of September.

The Bennett Cafe, located on the corner of State Line Street and the Martin Highway, is now open for business, after having been closed several weeks for a thorough remodeling.

The Bennett Homemakers Club met August 26 with Mrs. O. E. Nanney for their reorganization meeting. Mrs. Wales Austin was elected president.

Misses Betty Jean Rawls and Marjorie Holder were hostesses to a delightful spaghetti supper on August 24 at the home of Miss Holder. The guest list included: Misses Peggy Hutchens, Elizabeth Nell Sanders, Betty Austin, Josephine Shankle, Genrose Wygal of Detroit, June Suggs of Clinton, Ruth Ferguson, Messrs. Wayne McClure, James Shankle, Billy Bell, Jack Harper, Ivan Jones and the hostesses. A place was also set for Pvt. Billy Fry, who recently entered the service of the U. S. Army.

A lovely lawn party was given by Mrs. J. T. Fowlkes at her new home south of town on August 27. The guest list included only the members of the Music Department of the Woman's Club. Guests arrived at 4:30 and were served delicious sandwiches and drinks. Mrs. M. W. Haws offered a nice toast to Mrs. W. L. Durbin, who has completed her second year as chairman of the Music Club and who was recently elected general chairman of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. H. H. Bugg entertained members of her bridge club on September 2 with one visitor, Miss Lena Evelyn Taylor, present. High score prize, which was war stamps, went to Miss Martha Taylor. The hostess served a delicious dessert course to the players at the conclusion of the games.

Mrs. W. B. McClain and Mrs. L. M. Roberson entertained Mrs. Edith Connell and Miss Phyllis Scrivo of Detroit with a luncheon party August 31 on the lawn of the Roberson home on the Union City Highway. Twenty guests enjoyed this party.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week a new state administration, elected on a platform that pledged keeping Kentucky in the fight to preserve the Union although the candidates indignantly denied their opponents' charges that they favored the Lincoln administration, was inaugurated at Frankfort.

Thomas E. Bramlette, sworn in as governor, was a former circuit judge in the district that included his home town of Columbia, Adair County. Earlier in the war he had raised and then commanded the Third Kentucky (Union) Infantry regiment. He had been commissioned major general shortly before he was nominated by the Union Democrats, who had chosen that name because "Republican" was in 1863 a bad word in Kentucky, even among supporters of the Union. Bramlette, who eventually would come to an open break with President Lincoln, was destined to serve out his full term and retire with the respect of both sides, a remarkable achievement in a war-torn border state.

Another former Union Army officer, Col. Richard T. Jacob, who had been commander of the Ninth Kentucky Cavalry regiment, was sworn in as lieutenant governor. Before the end of his term he would be arrested by Federal authorities.

During the same week Union Col. Leonidas Metcalfe was busy refunding to citizens of Bourbon, Harrison and Nicholas counties—but at the rate of only 60 cents on the dollar—sums which during the previous year he had collected from persons accused of being Southern sympathizers. The 40 percent of the money that was not refunded, he reported he had used to reimburse loyal persons who had suffered losses because of Confederate raids. To get the 60-per-cent refund, one had to sign a receipt in full; the colonel said that was "to cover accidents."

A bank at Flemingsburg was robbed, and so were some of the citizens, by a band of about 70 guerillas, not identified as having any connection with either army.

Of seven Union Army deserters, convicted by a court martial during the previous week and given death sentences, two were shot to death by a firing squad at Munfordsville; the five others meantime had been granted prison terms.

A Confederate unit was routed in a skirmish on Pigeon Creek, in Logan County, losing eight killed, six wounded, and 32 captured.

An advertisement in a Louisville newspaper said in part: "All who prefer volunteering and receiving a bounty to being drafted without bounty will find it greatly to their interest to call on A. J. Alexander at his office . . . where they can enlist in the Eleventh Kentucky Cavalry and get $100 bounty, $25 of it in advance; also, one month's pay and $2 for enlisting, making $40 in advance. They will join companies where all officers will be elected by their men . . . Those recruiting the most men will have the best chances for these offices."

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

We have been having so much trouble with our typewriter this week. Every time we hit a key it wants to write s...s i. m. c...n. We wanted to call in the repair man, but then the office staff came in and figured it all out. We've been writing the name of that play at Kenlake Amphitheatre so many times, that when we decided to stop it, the keys just hit that way anyhow. It's going to take some time for us to get adjusted to writing and talking about something else. Two years is a long time to think, sleep, eat and worry about one item. But it's over now. Until we start the record again next year, we'll tune in to doin's around home.

For the next several weeks we'll be getting a lot of news about the college crowd going off in all directions to get some higher larnin'. First news to come in is the fact that Pam Homra, Fred and Margaret's eldest off-spring is going off to Stephens College in Columbia, Missouri. The head of our household can tell you that she surely picked a fine school. (He attended University of Missouri, right across the road, and he ought to know.)

The press release from Stephens said that more than 1780 women students from all parts of the globe will be in classes at Stephens College this fall. The student body will have girls from 50 states and from 15 foreign countries or commonwealths. These include Bolivia, Canada, the Canal Zone, Denmark, Germany, Iran, Japan, Mexico, Nigeria, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Switzerland and Venezuela.

Knowing Pam as all of us do, she'll get to be friends with every single one of them and bring a few home to visit when she comes home. We sure hope so!

Linnie (Mrs. Ted) Clark looked awfully lonesome walking down the street Thursday. Her household had been one gay place for a few days while Mary Leone and Arthur Larson of Chicago were visiting her. Mary Leone is one of those persons who puts everybody in a fine humor when she walks into the room. She paid us a too short visit at the News office while she was here. As busy as all get when she came in, we promised to make time for a longer visit before she left town. But you know how it is! Mary Leone and Arthur were gone on to Birmingham to attend to some

Miss Weatherford Plans Early Fall Wedding To Mr. Ellis Of Clinton

Miss Weatherford

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Brenda Weatherford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Weatherford, Route 1, Wingo, Kentucky and Allen F. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ellis of South Fulton, Tennessee.

Miss Weatherford is a graduate of the 1963 class of Wingo High School. Mr. Ellis is a graduate of the 1963 class of South Fulton High School and is employed by the Illinois Central Railroad.

All friends and relatives are invited to the wedding, which will take place in the early fall.

more visiting before we could get around to having them chat a few minutes out at our Westwood.

If you see a lot of Boy Scouts with some colorful "patch jackets" on, please know that they were made by Mrs. W. O. Beard. She made one for our Scout and when we called to ask her the tariff for making same she said: "The material cost $1.95." When asked about the handwork cost she added: "Oh I didn't charge to make them. I made them for all the little boys."

If you don't think that shook us, but good, you're mistaken. Here we've been dreading every minute of having to sew those patches on the jacket and she's taken her time to make them for free. How ornery can a diarist get?

Last Wednesday night, after the usual harrowing press day, we went home and after a quick meal sat down to relax before that home entertainment companion, called TV. It was about nine, so we watched that miserable show called "The Eleventh Hour." The subject matter of this program is usually so gruesome we rarely remember what it's about two seconds after we turn off the set.

But anyway, while watching the show we developed a frightful ache in the left hand and arm. The more we watched, the more severe the pain became. We thought sure the old ticker was about to konk out. Soon our men-folks came in and one of them decided to massage the muscles in the affected area. Simultaneous with the end of the rub-down, the show ended and we felt all right again. We decided it was that horrendous play. The next morning we read that with the premiere of A. B. C.'s "Breaking Point" on September 16, television will have 10 network hours of drama each week dedicated to the sick, sore, lame, and disabled.

Included are four returning evening shows, "Dr. Kildare," "Ben Casey," "The Eleventh Hour," and "The Nurses." There are also the afternoon agony serials, "The Doctors" and "General Hospital."

It is axiomatic that a popular series spawns a rash of similar ones, but the question most often asked of "Breaking Point" producer George Lefferts is why a second series about mental and emotional illness.

"Eleventh Hour" is staked out in the same area—psychiatry and psychoanalysis.

Even if we wanted to act like we're sane, television is dedicated to the premise that we go around looking like and acting like kooks.

Oh, to be a sportswriter . . . to know the difference between a bowling ball and a soft ball. But more than that . . . oh, to have a sportswriter. Now that Duck Smith is at Jet Lanes and really striking up the leagues over there; and football starting at all the schools around us . . . and basketball soon on the way, we can't possibly keep up with everything.

Last week we intended to write a story about the exciting ladies golf matches out at the Country Club. They were won and over with before we had time to get the pairings. We extend our hearty congratulations to Betty Vowell for winning her fourth Country Club championship. Take it from us she did it the hard way. A precision golfer, she looks like she's playing any old dubber even while playing first class golfers.

She downed such "pros" as Nancy Bushart, Jewel Myatt, Zane Taylor and Nell Newton. She usually comes off the course after such feats smiling, relaxed and ready to take on the next competitor.

Besides winning the championship at the local club Betty also won the Tri-State Association two-day meet at Paxton Park this year, along with the West Tennessee Association two-day medal tourney at Pinecrest Club at Trenton. She is a member of the Fulton Country Club team, which now holds No. 1 spot in the Tri-state Association team play.

When Betty steps up to get the trophy that will add more glitter to her fast growing collection, she will be joined by other first class golfers who will get these awards:

Jewel Myatt, runner-up

First Flight

Nell Newton, winner

Betty Wade, runner-up

Second Flight

At the regular meeting of the One and All Club on August 29, Mrs. Bill Smith was surprised with a delightful birthday dinner.

The dining table featured a beautifully decorated birthday cake, with other dishes brought in by the members. A special treat was homemade ice cream. Mrs. Smith received many nice birthday gifts.

After lunch, the regular business meeting was held with one new member, Mrs. Bob Harris, being welcomed into the club.

Miss Barbara Caldwell, Mr. Marvin Adkins Pledge Vows in Candlelight Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Adkins

In a beautiful candlelight double-ring ceremony, Miss Barbara Caldwell, daughter of Mrs. Howard Caldwell of Union City and Mr. Harvey Caldwell of Fulton, became the bride of Marvin Gene Adkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Adkins of Louisville, Tennessee, on Saturday, August 31, 1963, at 8 p. m. The impressive ceremony was solemnized in the sanctuary of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Union City, with the Rev. Richard Coons, pastor of the church, officiating.

Highlighting the beauty of the decor for the ceremony was the altar, where the bride and groom knelt for prayer during the wedding. The altar was centered with an arch, trimmed with huckleberry and holding two rows of white tapers. The white carpeted aisle was lighted on each side by tall wedding marches, "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin by Wagner and "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Caldwell was radiant in a floor length white gown by Exquisite Bridals. Alencon lace formed the fitted bodice of the dress, featuring a modified Sabrina neckline enhanced with tiny seed pearls. Miss Caldwell carried a lovely bouquet of white rosebuds, surrounding a large white orchid and tied with wide satin ribbon.

Mrs. Hendon Wright, Jr. of Norfolk, Va., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harmon Pierce, cousin of the bride, of Murray, Ky.; Mrs. Ray Adkins and Miss Teresa Adkins, niece of the groom, of Louisville, Tenn. and Miss Jane Evans of Smithville, Tenn. They wore identical dresses of cranberry red velvet by Joy Time Originals. The cranberry red hue was also repeated in the attendants' shoes and in their dainty hats, made of a circle of velvet with a matching handmade velvet rose and tiny streamers at the back. Their bouquets were rose pink asters, with a silhouette of leaves made of matching satin ribbon entwined with ivy.

Miss Sherry Campbell, niece of the groom, of Marion, Va. was flower-girl. Wearing a crisp bouffant white organdy dress and a headband of white rosebuds, Miss Campbell dropped red rose petals from a dainty lace-trimmed white basket. Ring bearer was Master Steve Campbell of Marion, Va., nephew of the groom. Wearing a miniature tuxedo, he carried the wedding rings on a velvet pillow.

J. B. Gardner of Louisville, Tenn. served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Kenneth Adkins and Mr. Ray Adkins, both brothers of the groom, of Louisville, Tenn., Mr. Howard Burns of Knoxville, Tenn. and Mr. Robert W. Caldwell, brother of the bride, of Union City.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Howard Caldwell wore a lovely powder blue silk crepe sheath, styled with a blue lace bodice, cap sleeves and a low laced neckline. Her hat was a circle of cranberry red velvet. She wore a purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. Taylor Adkins, mother of the groom, was attired in a sky blue lace sheath dress, featuring a rounded neckline and a bolero jacket, effected by the loose-fitting bodice. Mrs. Adkins' hat was a matching circle of roses. Her ensemble was complemented by a purple orchid corsage.

A Herbert Levy original fashioned of Dior blue Alencon lace and crepe was the choice of Mrs. Harvey Caldwell, step-mother of the bride. Her half-hat, made of matching Dior blue flower petals, her matching Vogue jewelry and a purple orchid corsage completed her smart attire.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the basement of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a cloth of cut-work, with net over-skirt. The five-tiered wedding cake was topped with decorations of wedding bells and orange blossoms, surrounded by white rosebuds caught in puffs of tulle. The cake was served by Mrs. David Campbell of Fulton, Ky. and Mrs. Howard Burns of Knoxville, Tenn. Serving punch were Mrs. Bob Cusey of Union City and Mrs. Bell Teuton of Martin, Tenn.

Presiding at the guest register was Mrs. Gordon Silvey of Memphis, Tenn. The table featured an arrangement of pink mums and carnations against a white cloth.

Upon their return from a brief wedding trip, the bride and groom will reside in Cookeville, Tenn., where Mr. Adkins will teach at Tennessee Polytechnical Institute. Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Monte Campbell of Marion, Va. Mrs. Campbell is a sister of the groom. Other guests were Mrs. Howard Casual elegance is the way to describe the coffee party held last week by Mary Nelle (Mrs. Hendon, Sr.) Wright for bride-elect Barbara Caldwell. The bridal motif was carried out throughout the Wright home with fresh cut flowers in evidence everywhere. Highlighting the decorations was the bride's table, elaborately decorated with a white linen table cloth, and enhanced by silver candelabra burning long white tapers and by silver platters of dainty white sandwiches and cakes. Mary Nelle's penchant for doing the unusual in party-giving went all out in her table decorations. A rose tree, of hand-made roses, stood nearby two tiny "kissing dolls" dressed as bride and groom on an antique cake stand. Adding sentiment to beauty the bride doll's dress was made of tulle from the bride's wedding gown. Tiny bouquets of lilies of the valley caught in white tulle adorned the skirt of the table cloth.

Yet, the event was graciously informal. Barbara was attired in a striking sports outfit of "sailing blue" slim jims and a coordinated striped blouse.

Mary Nelle received her guests in a smart silk sports ensemble of chartreuse lounging shorts, complemented by a printed silk over-blouse.

Mrs. Howard Caldwell, of Union City, mother of the bride, poured coffee at the lovely buffet table and was quite attractive in a smart brown and white plaid sport dress fashioned without sleeves and with a pleated skirt.

One of the nice things about these long holiday week-ends is that you can have friends come for a long way, for at least a short visit. Last Friday evening some of our favorite people, Helen Price, Ellis Merrifield and Field and Marilyn McChesney joined us for some uninterrupted visiting until late Monday afternoon. All of them call Frankfort their home base, but Field and Marilyn are making important posts in the Democratic campaign headquarters in Louisville. It's always a gay time when these people visit us, and even gayer when mutual friends run in and out for festive get-togethers.

"Misrepresentation!" he barks. "Isn't that peculiar grounds for divorce? Explain yourself."

"Gladly, your honor," the husband replied. "When I asked her to marry me, she said: she was agreeable. She wasn't judge!"

Hickman Enjoys Sell-Out During Majestic Visit

The Indiana University showboat Majestic, purchased in 1959 to provide summer training for students of theatre, chalked up its most successful season in 1963.

The Majestic's 11-week tour along Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, which ended Sunday (Aug. 25) in Hickman, Ky., drew a total of 24,926 persons for an average of 341 a performance.

In 1960, the first year the University operated the showboat, average attendance was 280, and last summer, was 311. Sold-out houses this year totaled 38, up sharply from 1962 capacity audiences.

Fourteen I. U. students of theatre made this season's trip, which began June 7 in Cincinnati and closed in Hickman on the Mississippi River. Performances in Hickman, hometown of Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., the University's president, were sold-out, with Dr. Stahr and members of his family aboard the Majestic for two of the three shows.

Banks To Give Free Leaflets On Social Security

This week a leaflet, "Your Social Security Check", will be available at banks in this county.

Charles Whitaker, Manager of the Paducah District Social Security Office, states that this free leaflet contains information of importance to all beneficiaries and to the Businessmen who cash or accept Social Security checks.

Benefit checks for more than $1,300,000 each month are received by over 24,000 beneficiaries in the Paducah District. The growing number of beneficiaries, Whitaker feels, increases the need for those concerned in the negotiation of the checks to be fully informed.

Whitaker expressed his appreciation for the cooperation of bank officials in the effort to prevent violations or irregularities. Those who do not secure a leaflet at the bank may secure one by writing to the Social Security Office, 112 South 10th Street, Paducah, Kentucky.

The Fulton Co. News

Dear Sir:

The Republican candidate for governor sounds like a GOP version of Huey Long as he goes demagoguing about the state. Everything he has said so far has put him in direct opposition to that great Kentucky Republican, John Sherman Cooper. Perhaps the debate should be between Nunn and Cooper.

Mr. Nunn is making it extremely easy for Kentuckians to make their choice for governor. He has no platform—nothing but cynicism and malice.

Breathitt's victory margin will be 150,000.

Yours truly,

Queen Linda Thorpe To Reign As Fair Royalty

"Always a bridesmaid, never a bride" might have described the lovely and personable Miss Linda Thorpe, with regard to beauty contests, until last week.

The stunningly-attractive South Fulton lass swept honors at the opening feature of the Sixth Annual New Obion County Fair and today reigns as "Miss Obion County Fair."

Miss Thorpe, daughter of Obion County Trustee and Mrs. Earl Thorpe, who make their home on Route 4, Fulton, wept tears of nervous happiness as she accepted the symbolic crown from the hands of Miss Beverly Weldon, the 1962 "Miss Obion County Fair."

The brown-eyed brunette has been entered in a number of similar competitions in the past but, except for being named "Miss South Fulton," her new victory was her first. She was first maid in the recent Miss Gibson County Electric Cooperative pageant and was second maid to Miss Weldon last year.

"Oh, thank you, thank you," she murmured huskily to the judges. A few moments later she was surrounded by relatives, friends and well-wishers.

Named first maid to Miss Thorpe was Miss Barbara Raines, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Raines of Union City, sponsored by the Union City Business & Professional Women's club. Second maid was Miss Linda Wilson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of Union City, sponsored by the Union City Future Homemakers of America chapter.

Miss Thorpe, who was 18 years of age last week, was sponsored by the Obion County Livestock Assn.

She was graduated earlier this year from South Fulton High school and plans to enter UTMB in the fall.

"Right now, I plan to major in psychology," she said.

The beauty pageant, which officially opened the county fair this year, attracted 33 contestants. The judges, from Memphis and Dyersburg, used the first 90 minutes to pare the entries down to the five finalists.
